

Understanding Healthy Parental Relationships and its Impact on Child Outcomes - eLearning

Conflict between parents happens; it is a normal process that occurs in all relationships. However, if the conflict is frequent, intense and destructive, this can have a damaging impact on the child.

This free eLearning has been specially developed for all practitioners who work alongside families to:

- Gain a greater awareness of the importance of healthy parental relationships and why this all matters
- Discuss why constructive argument is okay
- Identify the signs that a relationship may be in distress
- Understand what the evidence base tells us about parental relationships.
- Recognise and identify the impact on children
